ED attaches city horse trainer's assets worth Rs. 117 crore

Enforcement Directorate alleges Taxidermist Van Ingen was conned using fake adoption deed

New Delhi / Bengaluru, Nov. 21 (BCT)- Assets worth over Rs. 117.87 crore, including 220.19 acres of coffee estate in Kerala's Wayanad district, 70 invaluable animal trophies, "Bisal Munti" a house on Hyder Ali Road in Mysuru and rosewood furniture of a man, who allegedly cheated a British taxidermist of the Maharaja of Mysore, have been attached by Enforcement Directorate (ED) under Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA).

Van Ingen

In a tweet and a press statement, the ED said a provisional order has been issued against Michael Flyod Eshwer, a horse trainer based in Mysuru under the PMLA. "ED attaches immovable properties in Nazarbad Mohalla, Mysuru and agricultural coffee plantation at Wayanad District, Kerala totalling Rs. 117.87 crore and around 70 invaluable animal trophies and furniture made of rosewood belonging to Michael Floyd Eshwer under PMLA in a cheating case," said the ED tweet.

A view of the Van Ingen bungalow in Nazarbad this morning.

According to Enforcement Directorate officials, Eshwer allegedly forged documents, including the death certificate of British national the late Edwin Joubert Van Ingen, who was a taxidermist for the erstwhile Mysuru royal family, to claim ownership of the property. This includes Van Ingen's coffee estate in Wayanad, Kerala, and another property in Nazarbad.

ED version

Van Ingen, who lived in Mysuru, was allegedly conned by Eshwer who created a "false adoption deed" in his favour and usurped the assets that were gifted by the Maharaja of Mysore to Van Ingen, ED, the federal probe agency said.

The ED said it took over the probe into the cheating and forgery case on the basis of a charge-sheet filed by Karnataka Criminal Investigation Department (CID) in 2013.

The ED took up investigation on the CID charge-sheet filed before the Third Chief Judicial Magistrate, Mysuru against Eshwer and others.

A fabricated case, says trainer Michael Eshwer

Mysuru, Nov. 21 (BCT)- Reacting to the Enforcement Directorate (ED) attaching his properties under the Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA), Michael Floyd Eshwer said that the entire case was fabricated and based on faulty investigation. "This is to tarnish my image and to extract money from me," he said.

Dy.SP M.K. Ganapathy suicide case

CBI gives clean chit to K.J. George

Mysuru, Nov. 21 (BCT)- The Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) has given a clean chit to former Minister and Congress strongman K.J. George in the sensational suicide case of Dy.SP Madappanda K. Ganapathy.

George

In its 'B Report', the CBI has stated that George, the then Home Minister and two senior IPS Officers A.M. Prasad (Ashit Mohan Prasad) and Pronab Mohanty had no role to play in the suicide case and Ganapathy died of depression, sources said.

The CBI had submitted a 262-page report on Oct. 30 in the Judicial Magistrate First Class Court (JMFC) in Madikeri and the Court later transferred the suicide case to Special Court for People's Representatives (Public Representatives' Court) in Bengaluru.

Ganapathy was found hanging at a lodge in Madikeri in 2016. The CBI probe was ordered by the Supreme Court. M.K. Ganapathy had allegedly killed himself wearing his uniform at room number 315 at Vinayaka Lodge in Madikeri on July 7, 2016.

He ended his life after appearing in a local TV channel interview in which he had alleged harassment by K.J. George, A.M. Prasad and Pronab Mohanty. Sources said that the CBI has stated in its report that the so called harassment charges were not proved by the investigation and there was not a shred of evidence to prove that George and the officers were guilty. The report states that Ganapathy was not facing any harassment while on duty and he was depressed due to certain family issues.

Media and Masses

Unarguably the only human pursuit that must comply with the factor of punctuality is production of dailies in various languages of the land. Not all readers are aware of the sleepless nights that their managements experience in ensuring their delivery at the doorstep of the subscribing readers virtually on the dot. Reporters, copy-writers, printing crew, the tribe in the distribution system, apart from the machines in the press and communication channels have no option other than working in union, all for ensuring continued patronising of their favourite rag, particularly in an atmosphere of cut-throat competition on the dog-eat-dog lines. Features of the periodicals such as coverage of goings on, matter portraying the conduct of vote-mongers, acts of criminal nature, information pertaining to civic requirements with deadlines for citizens to comply with, articles by seasoned writers on subjects in a wide range, print quality, desire of columnists to see their writings in print, layout and what have you that different sections of readers adore are themselves volatile. Hardly any reader interacts with the crew in the press or the management on the above issues.

The history of newspaper is traced to an era of distant past when neither paper nor printing technology existed. Whatever had to be conveyed to the citizens is said to have been etched on stone slabs and placed at a prominent public place in ancient Greece. That journalism, per force, dictated decision-making on publishing matter, with greatest care unlike in modern times, when print 'n' be damned is the principle.

Opinion is divided about the future of print media, one view being that there is no threat to the newspaper industry in its present avatar in foreseeable future, despite the emergence of e-editions on respective websites, thanks to the unstoppable march of digital technology. Expectations from different sections of the newspaper reading public being diverse and also volatile as days progress, survival of the industry's players offers no option other than anticipation of reader-behaviour and take the challenges head-on keeping all eyes and ears in the open. In this context, while print media has to provide column-space in a big way for affairs of the politicos for all-too-familiar reasons, some sections, particularly the society's intelligentsia, can be heard expressing their disenchantment about the disturbed state of the country in particular and the world at large.

Revenue from advertisements being the only factor of sustaining power in the newspaper industry, its players are compelled to be pro-active 24 x 7 in ensuring a rising trend in the number of subscribers. In turn, the rag has to be more responsive to whatever the reading mass expects, than the intelligentsia's preferences. In short, the fickle nature of the masses, who are the patrons of the industry, keeps its players on their toes all the time.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Ideally, Income Tax should be as close to zero as possible because it's a political tax of no economic significance. But that's not going to happen. However, there's something else that can be done. Last month I had said that I would suggest a game-changing reform. So think about this: Why is Income Tax levied only by the Centre in India while in many other federations the constituent units also levy it? Is there a reason which is unique to the Indian federation? Do the political conditions of 1950 still persist? Why is it not in the Concurrent List of the Constitution when so many other lesser things are in it? How can the Constitution empower States in every possible way but this?

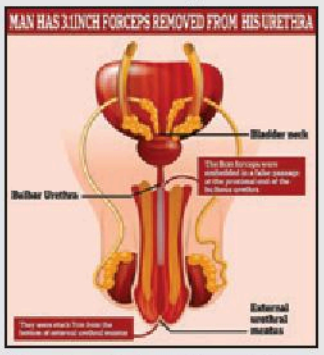
Man had tweezers stuck in his urethra for four years



Riyadh: Doctors have taken part in a delicate operation to remove a foreign object from inside a man's penis.

The patient, 22, who has not been named, claimed he did not suffer any pain since he inserted a pair of tweezers into his urethra four years earlier. Doctors applied pressure on either side of the penis to keep the 2.7-inch tweezers closed while squeezing them out from the base of the shaft.

If they removed them while they were still open the sharp ends could have damaged the urethra. It is now known why he inserted the tweezers into his manhood, but some men enjoy putting items in their penis while masturbating. The practice is known as sounding.

The X-ray revealed where the tweezers, showing the closed end had become embedded in the bulbous urethra at the top and the tweezers were wiggled out while the patient was under general anaesthetic and used forceps to finish off.

Vehicle parking fees at Railway Station

Users must insist for system-generated cash receipts

Sir,

Thousands of commuters travelling by train from Mysuru to Bengaluru and nearby areas park their two-wheelers at the parking lot provided in City Railway Station premises. Incidentally, at Gate No.2 [CFTRI side] for all practical purpose is a two-wheeler parking lot.

While checking into the parking lot, system-generated bar coded paper tokens will be issued indicating the vehicle number and checking in time particulars which shall be produced while checking out. But while checking out cash payment is being made by many users without insisting for system-generated payment receipts which the operator can generate by scanning the barcode token in no time.

Users paying the parking fees in cash may not be aware that failure to insist system-generated cash payment receipts may offer fertile ground and scope for large scale seepage of legitimate revenue to the exchequer.

At the first instance, parking fees for lesser period may be accounted by the operator despite collecting the fees for the whole day of parking which is normally the case and in good number of cases for two days and then annual gross revenue may be suppressed to come out of GST net itself as exemptions are available for GST compliance where the gross turnover is less than Rs.1.50 crore at present.

As a case point, based on system-generated cash receipt collected by me which was issued only on my demand (receipt No.448156 dated 22.9.2019), anybody can safely presume the gross annual collection for parking 9 lakh vehicles at an average rate of Rs.25 works out to Rs.2.25 lakh [numbering based on half-yearly parking of vehicles at 4.50 lakh] and inclusive of collection at Gate No.1 gross collection would be Rs. 4.50 crore per year and hold your breath, all in cash. With due respect to the operator, one can easily imagine the scope for seepage of GST and the Income Tax on net income, if the income is generated on the presumed line and in the absence of improper accounting of revenues.

It is time for the vehicle parking lot users not only at the Railway Station but also in public places where such facility is provided to demand for system-generated payment receipts which can be generated by the operator in a fraction of a minute by scanning the barcode of the entry token. Let the parking lot users join in nation-building exercise indirectly helping to mop up the revenue for the Government.

It is high time for installing point of sales [POS] machines to facilitate electronic payment mode. The lesser of the parking, the Railways shall give immediate instruction to the contractor for installing the POS machine.

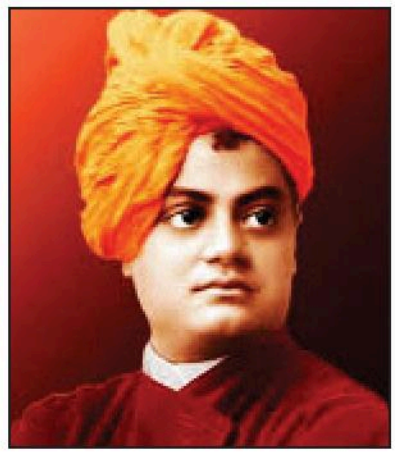
Two former officials come up with evidence on Swami Vivekananda's stay at Niranjana Mutt in city

N.S. Chakravarthi J.K. Basappa



Mysuru, Nov.21 (OSR) - Even as Historian Prof. P.V. Nanjaraj Urs claimed recently that there was no proof to say that Swami Vivekananda stayed at Niranjana Mutt during his visit to the city in 1892, two former officials of the city have come up with evidence to suggest that the monk stayed here and have also thrown light on some other facts concerning the NTM School on Narayana Shastry Road in the city.

N.S. Chakravarthi, retired Additional Secretary, Government of India and J.K. Basappa, retired Deputy Tahsildar and a Practising Advocate, in a joint letter, have stated that Niranjana Mutt located on Narayana Shastry Road was under the control of the State Education Department about seven years ago. The Mutt then housed three structures — the heritage Niranjana Mutt building, New Type Middle School (NTMS) and a building belonging to the Block Resource Centre (BRC), with a small Shiva temple close-by.

Basically, all the said three structures had come up in the space belonging to an Orphanage (Anathalaya) and there are official records to prove this and the Orphanage was managed by M. Venkatakrishnaiah, who was popularly known as Thathaiah.

There is no doubt about the fact that Swami Vivekananda stayed at this Mutt, which was part of the Orphanage, for three weeks when he visited Mysuru in 1892. During his stay, the Swami delivered spiritual discourse every day at Sadvidya Pathashala, located very close to the Mutt. His discourses had attracted the citizens of Mysuru in large numbers and also made an everlasting impact on them.

Besides, the then Maharaja of Mysore Chamaraja Wadiyar and the then Dewan of Mysore Seshadri Iyer too were closely associated with the young spiritual leader. It is a well-known fact that the Swami also stayed at Seshadri Bhavan located beside the Niranjana Mutt.

With days passing by, the then Government in 1915, shifted the Orphanage to a place near Subbarayanakere Grounds and took possession of the land which housed the Orphanage and there is enough evidence to suggest this.

Thereafter in 1953, the then State Government's Education Department built the NTM School in the above said land for the benefit of girl students. But later on as the number of girl students dipped sharply, the School was converted into a co-education School with admissions open for both boys and girls and by then the Maharani High School for girl children had already come up adjacent to it. But it is wrong to say that the Maharani, after merging the Maharani High School, had set up the NTM School herself. As such, it can be said that the Maharani School had nothing to do with NTM School.

Due to poor admissions at NTM School, the Karnataka Government merged the School with the nearby Devaraja School and thereafter sanctioned the total land of the School and Niranjana Mutt to Sri Ramakrishna Ashram in 2013 for the construction of the proposed Viveka Memorial (Swami Vivekananda Cultural Youth Centre) at the site.

It is important to note here that this Memorial is meant to be an inspirational centre for thousands of youths and personality development. The project will come up with help from the Central and State Governments. When executed, the project will be of huge benefit to thousands of students and this centre will no doubt be beneficial to Kannadigas. When this is the fact, one cannot understand why anyone has to oppose the Viveka Memorial project.

Another important fact that needs to be mentioned here is that, the then UPA Government headed by Prime Minister Dr. Manmohan Singh in 2012, had passed a resolution to set up Memorials in the name of Swami Vivekananda at various places where the Swami stayed across the country.

Following the resolution, service-centric Viveka Memorials have come up at various places in Gujarat, West Bengal, Tamil Nadu etc. Likewise, the then Karnataka Government in 2013, passed a Government Order dated 9.1.2013, giving permission for the Ramakrishna Ashram to set up the Viveka Memorial at the NTM School site. Accordingly, the land was handed over to Ramakrishna Ashram.

Hurdles were created later on, when a local committee submitted a memorandum to the Government seeking possession of the land to construct the Memorial. But the Government, which was totally unwilling to hand over the land to this local committee, handed over the land to the safe hands of Ramakrishna Ashram, for the construction of the proposed Viveka Memorial.

It is to be understood here that Sri Ramakrishna Ashram is not for making any profit from the Memorial but in the interests of lakhs of citizens and thousands of students. The Memorial, which is to be built on the lines of a service centre, will help students in their personality development and learning.

Now, everyone, after taking all the above mentioned factors into account, should whole-heartedly extend their co-operation for construction of Viveka Memorial, which no doubt will be one more feather in the city's cap, with the city already having earned the name as the cultural capital of the State.

Others seen are Mysuru District Co-operative Union President H.V. Rajeev, MCDCC Bank President G.D. Harish Gowda, Karnataka Co-operative Federation President N. Ganganna, MLAs S.A. Ramdas and G.T. Devegowda, and Karnataka State Souharda Federal Co-operative Ltd. President B.H. Krishna Reddy and MLA L. Nagendra.

Mysuru, Nov.21 (RKB&DM)- Maintaining that it is only the Co-operative Banks and not Co-operative Societies that come under the purview of Income-Tax (I-T), Home Minister Basavaraj Bommai, who is also the Co-operation Minister, has assured of exerting pressure on the Union Government to keep Co-operative Banks out of the purview of I-T.

He was speaking at the valedictory of the 66th All India Co-operative Week organised at the Convocation Hall of KSOU here yesterday. Stressing on the need for simplification of Co-operative Laws, Basavaraj Bommai assured that the Co-operative sector will be extended all help by simplification of laws.

He observed that National Bank for Agriculture and Rural Development (NABARD) should extend it's activities and invest more in rural areas to help the District Co-operative Banks.

Asserting that farmers have a big role in the Co-operative sector, the Minister said that he would write to NABARD seeking more funds for Co-operative Banks.

Emphasising on the role of working class in strengthening of the Co-operative sector, he opined that all efforts should be made to bring whole of the working class under the Co-operative sector.

Noting that the working class is one of the main drivers of the economy of a country, Bommai said that the co-operative sector should gear up to meet the modern day challenges.

Chamundeshwari MLA and former Minister G.T. Devegowda, who is also a Director of Karnataka Co-operative Federation (KCF), in his presidential address, said that the Co-operative sector has successfully staved off the challenges of liberalisation and globalisation. He further said that Prime Minister Narendra Modi backtracked from signing the Regional Comprehensive Economic Partnership (RCEP) agreement after realising that the Co-operative, Dairy and Farming sectors would be badly hurt.

Lecture on 'Aspirations of Indian Constitution'

Prof. H.M. Rajashekar

Mysuru, Nov.21 (SPN&DM)- Regretting that Dr. B.R. Ambedkar's vision of 'we are Indians and the country comes first' is being forgotten, former University of Mysore (UoM) Political Science faculty Prof. H.M. Rajashekar expressed concern over rising casteism and communalism among the youth.

He was delivering a special talk on the topic 'Aspirations of Indian Constitution' as part of the ongoing lecture series on 'Indian Constitution,' organised by Parampare, a city-based cultural organisation, at Sri Nadabrahma Sangeetha Sabha on JLB Road in city yesterday.

Pointing out that the Constitution of many democratic countries such as America, France and India are not based on any caste or religion, Prof. Rajashekar opined that our Constitution covers all religions of the country and it was important that we follow the Constitution in our administration.

Bemoaning that our administration has gone wayward from the principles underlined in the Constitution, he blamed the politicians of throwing the ideals of the Constitution to the winds and propagating caste-based politics.

Recalling that the State has witnessed great leaders like S. Nijalingappa and Kengal Hanumanthaiah, he stressed on the need for studying the achievements of great leaders and draw inspiration from them.

He further said that populist schemes will have only a temporary bearing and cannot meet the Constitutional aspirations.

Decoding Mythology

Dr. Devdutt Pattanaik - Author, Speaker, Illustrator, Mythologist

A body with eight bends

Ashtavakra is a famous rishi associated with the Upanishadic period, roughly 2,500 years ago. His conversations with Janaka are very popular, where he draws attention to the connection between the spirit within us and the spirit that is present all around us — the relationship between Jeevatma and Paramatma, or simply, Atma and Brahman. More than his philosophy, the story of Ashtavakra himself makes us think a lot about relationships between fathers and sons.

The story goes that Kahoda was once explaining the secret of the Vedas, or his understanding of the Vedas, to his wife Sujata, the daughter of great sage, Aruni. Their unborn child overheard their conversation from his mother's womb. At one point, on realising that Kahoda had made a mistake, he corrected his father. This happened eight times: Kahoda made eight mistakes and the unborn child corrected the father eight times. This angered Kahoda so much that he cursed his own child. "Since this child thinks he is so smart," Kahoda cursed, "that he can correct his father eight times, he will be born with eight bends in his body." Thus, when the child was born, he was deformed, eight times bent, and so named Ashtavakra.

When Ashtavakra grew up, he became a great scholar of the Vedas. He kept wondering where his father was and was told that Kahoda had gone to Janaka's Ashram to prove his mettle in Vedic knowledge, in a great intellectual competition. When he came of age, Ashtavakra made his way to Mithila, to King Janaka's court. Arriving there, he was shocked to find that his father had been defeated and was kept enslaved by a man called Vandin, whose condition for debate was that losers had to become his slaves.

To free his father, Ashtavakra challenged Vandin. In the debate that followed, Ashtavakra easily defeated Vandin and liberated his father. Thus, Kahoda who had cursed his own son for being more intelligent than him, was rescued from slavery by the very same son, due to the very same intellect Kahoda had cursed him for. Kahoda realised how his pomposity had caused him great misery. The story makes us aware that even fathers can be jealous of sons. This is also the first story of a disabled sage that we find in Hindu mythology. His deformed body was no indicator of his vast intellect.

In the Krittibas Ramayana, in Bengali, roughly 500 years ago, it is said that Ashtavakra one day came upon a pile of flesh that was moving this way and that and wondered if it was a man who was mocking his deformity. But on closer observation, he realised it was a human being without any bones in his body. This man had been created by two women, without the participation of any man. He called this child, Bhagirath, one created by two women. Then, with his Siddha powers, Ashtavakra gave the child bones and made him complete. Later, Bhagirath played a key role in bringing Ganga from the heavens to earth. Bhagirath was also an ancestor of Ram.

This story shows how non-judgemental Indian sages were. They had no problem with two women making love to each other to produce a child; the problem was practical, of bones, and that was compensated for by the sage. Yet, today, the State doubts the ability of two women raising a child as two parents.

Resolve your conflict, early

By N.K.A. Ballal,
Retd. Sr. Vice-President, ITDC

Everyone of us carry a baggage in our lives. Fight over land, property, money etc., is common. Every one in the twilight of his or her life thinks about ending all these conflicts but may not to be able to do it due to so many reasons. So why not try to end these conflicts much before our end comes so that one faces his or her end without a feeling of any guilt?

Mukthi Bhawan? I am sure many of you would have heard about this building in Kashi where people go to die! Why? One may ask. As per our own Hindu scriptures, if one dies in Kashi, the abode of Shiva, one attains Moksha [ultimate salvation]. No rebirth. So, many ailing persons, in their prime, come and stay in this Mukthi Guest House to breathe their last.

Ballal

There is, of course, a rule for all residents of this Guest House. Accommodation is confirmed for only two weeks and in that period if one does not breathe his or her last, they have to go back to their own homes. Ironical, but truth is that one cannot just wish for death, it comes at its destined time.

Till date, nearly more than 12,000 people have used this home to breath their last. This home is managed by one Shukla from last four decades. He was recently asked by a journalist his opinion about this practice. He said, "I have seen many a deaths. Some violent and some calm. But one which moved me was the death of one Mishra."

This gentleman after ten days of his stay went and asked Shukla to ring up his brother to request him to come here. Out of curiosity Shukla asked him the reason for this. Mishra said, "Me and my brother had a major quarrel over some land and have not talked to each other for nearly 40 years. Even the ancestral house where we stay, we have put up a wall in between dividing the house. Just as I was sitting and thinking about this, the futility of all came into my mind. When I am going to leave this world, I am not going to take away my land for which I had fought bitterly. So I wanted to meet him and ask his forgiveness. I do not want to go to the other world carrying the burden of guilt of not talking with own blood brother for 40 years over a trivial land row."

Shukla called up his brother and talked to him. Reluctantly, his brother came over. Both of them hugged each other and suddenly Mishra, who was staying in the Bhawan, passed away with a peaceful smile on his face. This is one mantra Shukla tells all the inmates when they come to check in. Please resolve all your past issues, call your relatives, friends and all those who you have wronged. Talk over, resolve the issues and do not carry any baggage when your time comes to go away.

Everyone of us carry a baggage in our lives. Fight over land, property, money etc., is common. Every one in the twilight of his or her life thinks about ending all these conflicts but may not to be able to do it due to so many reasons. So why not try to end these conflicts much before our end so that one faces his or her end without a feeling of any guilt?

Greed and accumulation of wealth by all means, fair and unfair, is a part of this kaliyuga but when nearing and facing death everyone understands the implications of this and wants forgiveness. Saint or a thug, everyone wants Moksha.

Another stark truth, whether it is Ambani or any common man, when one is taken to the crematorium, everything is stripped, all the wealth is left behind. In the past, several kings of Egypt used to bury their wealth along with themselves in a mistaken notion that they could use it after their death too. But what happened. Their coffins were raided by thieves and wealth stolen.

In a recent KBC episode, a contestant from Orissa quotes his mother, "After death if at least 10 persons do not talk positively about you, your janma is a waste." You visit any crematorium, for the first half-an-hour everyone starts talking very positively and then starts cribbing about the deceased man or woman. If after 30 minutes people still talk positively, he or she has had a good janma. Have you ever noticed for a good soul, people come all over "uninvited" to pay respects.

To conclude, resolve all your issues much before you are in the twilight of your life. There is a possibility that nearing the end of your life you may not be able to meet the persons whom you want to ask forgiveness. Why wait for the last moment? Take a decision early and do it so that you can depart with no regrets in your heart.

The cases were filed under Sections 201, 342, 384, 403, 406, 409, 420, 465, 468, 507, 120-B, 464, 197 of IPC read with Section 51 read with Section 39 of the Wild Life Protection Act, 1972.

The CID was investigating the matter on the directions of Supreme Court (SC). "Eshwer created a false adoption deed in his favour and also got a false death certificate of Van Ingen and fraudulently got the properties transferred in his name," the ED alleged.

Eshwer came to know about Van Ingen and the properties that were gifted to the taxidermist by the Maharaja of Mysore for his services, the ED said. "He also got to know that Van Ingen was not married and old-aged. He took advantage of this and fraudulently took possession of the properties held by Van Ingen," the agency charged.

Registered sale deed

According to CID, Eshwer, as a horse trainer, was a member of Mysore Race Club and he met Van Ingen at the Club. Eshwer knew Ingen was unmarried and took advantage of the latter's old age. Eshwer claimed he was adopted by Ingen, who transferred the properties to him through a registered sale deed five years before he died.

The ED said that Eshwer, in connivance with others, "breached the trust of" Van Ingen and the taxidermist later filed a Police complaint. Ingen had stated that Eshwer was trying to usurp his properties by claiming to be his adopted son and had even got documents forged to stake a claim.

Van Ingen was bed-ridden for a year-and-half before he died at the age of 101 in 2013. Van Ingen's relative (his sister's granddaughter) Tilly Gifford later approached Supreme Court against Eshwer's claims. The SC directed CID to investigate.

"Eshwer projected the said properties as untainted and thus committed the offence of money laundering," the ED said and added that further probe in the case is under progress.

211-acre Alathur Estate is Govt. property

Suhas

In April 2018, Wayanad District Collector S. Suhas had declared that the Alathur Estate, a private coffee estate spread over 211.77 acres at Thrissilery village of Manandavadi taluk owned by British brothers Oliver Fiennes Maurice, Edwin Joubert Van Ingen and John De Wet Ingen as Government property under the Kerala Escheats and Forfeitures Act. The Act looks into the administration and custody of escheats and unclaimed property.

The Wayanad Collector had also cancelled any right, claim, or title of anyone other than the Government on the land. It is a well-maintained coffee plantation and Oliver Fiennes Maurice had transferred his share in the estate to the other two brothers. Subsequently Edwin became the owner of the estate after the death of John. After the death of Edwin Joubert Van Ingen, the estate became subject to the Kerala Escheats and Forfeitures Act.

Michael Floyd Eshwer from Mysuru and Metilda Rosamond Gifford from England turned up with their ownership claims before Collector Suhas. After examining documents and statutes, the Collector established that Edwin Joubert Van Ingen died intestate (without leaving any legal heirs) and he was the owner of the Alathur Estate at the time of his death. Such a property belongs to the Government as per the provisions of Escheats and Forfeitures Act, wherein the Government can enjoy full title, ownership and control.

Speaking to Star of Mysore this morning, Michael Floyd Eshwer said, "The entire case filed against me was false. The FIR number mentioned the chargesheet referred to some other case in the Station House Diary. The CID case is pending in the Karnataka High Court and in such a situation how can the ED attach properties," he questioned.

"My house was registered on Nov. 14, 2005, estate on Feb. 2, 2006. Van Ingen's trophies were transferred to my name from the Chief Conservator of Forest, Aranya Bhavan on July 7, 2007. The Prevention of Money Laundering Act under which the ED has attached my properties came into force only on March 6, 2009. This being the case, how can the ED have jurisdiction or powers to take over the case? I will challenge this before the High Court and pray for quashing the ED case," he said.

"The records are forged and fabricated and the investigation has not been carried in a fair, transparent and impartial manner. The properties including the bungalow and estate were registered in my name at Sub-Registrar's Offices in Mysuru and Manandawadi in Kerala. In fact, Van Ingen himself had accompanied me to get the properties registered in my name. Certain vested interests had filed a false case against me only to extract money. I am confident that justice would be served as I had not committed any fraud," Eshwer said.

Linemen play critical role in functioning of ESCOMs: Minister Nagesh

Minister H. Nagesh unveiling the plaque of the KEBEA Community Hall building at Dattagalli in city this morning as others look on.

Mysuru, Nov. 21 (RKB&DM)- Maintaining that Linemen and Engineers play a critical role in the functioning of Electricity Supply Companies (ESCOMs) and other power companies, Minister of Excise, Skill Development, Entrepreneurship and Livelihood H. Nagesh said that the lives of linemen are always at risk and as such they have to be extra careful while on the job.

He was speaking after receiving felicitation by the KEB Engineers Association (KEBEA), Mysuru Zonal Centre as part of the Association's 41st General Body Meeting and Kannada Rajyotsava celebrations at the KEBEA building at Kadakola on Mysuru-Nanjangud Road this morning.

Recalling his own service as a KEB engineer at Mysuru and several other places, he said although he is a Minister now, he will always remain indebted to the KEB for the launch of his career as an engineer, before he quit the job to become a politician. Pointing out that he was ready to extend all possible help to linemen and engineers now that he is a Minister, Nagesh said that his office in Vidhana Soudha will be open for KEB staff after 3pm on all working days and wished the Association all success in it's future endeavours

Calling upon the engineers to achieve all the tasks set by the department, he said that fortunately, the State was not witnessing any problem on the power front now as power generation has exceeded the demand.

Referring to Kannada Rajyotsava celebrations, Nagesh noted that everyone should understand the sacrifices of all those who fought for the cause of Kannada and Kannadigas. Stressing on the need for everyone in the State to learn Kannada, the Minister recollected Dr. Rajkumar's Gokak movement in the 1980's. Recalling his student days in Bengaluru, Nagesh said that he considered V.K. Gokak and G.P. Rajaratnam as his gurus. While Dr. Gokak taught him English, G.P. Rajaratnam taught Kannada, he said and added that he cannot ever forget the moments he shared with the two great literary personalities of the State.

Stating that Mysuru, Chamarajanagar, Mandya and Hassan districts formed the hub of pure Kannada speaking people, the Minister regretted that Kannadigas were becoming a minority in the State capital Bengaluru, which has become a cause of great concern for crores of Kannadigas. He exhorted the association to extend all it's help for the promotion of Kannada.

Earlier, Nagesh laid the foundation stone for the three-floor Samudaya Bhavan (Community Hall) of the KEABA at Dattagalli in city.

The community hall being built at a cost of Rs. 3 Crore, features a dining hall at the ground floor, a 300 seat capacity hall on the first floor and six fully equipped rooms on the second floor. The community Hall is coming up on a site measuring 100mtx100 mt.

KSOU files seven complaints against former VCs, officers

Plaints against irregularities, breach of trust and conspiracy causing financial loss to Open Varsity

Mysuru, Nov. 21 (MTY& BCT)- The Karnataka State Open University (KSOU) has filed complaints against its previous Vice-Chancellors, Finance Officer, Registrar and Registrar (Evaluation) in connection with various irregularities in the Open University that led to the University Grants Commission (UGC) derecognising the University.

The complaints were filed before Anti Corruption Bureau (ACB), Mysuru and Jayalakshmipuram Police Station yesterday. While five complaints were filed before the ACB Superintendent of Police, two were filed before the Station House Officer, Jayalakshmipuram Police Station.

"Their acts are clearly fraudulent and amounting to cheating the University and misappropriation of public funds of the University, which is a criminal breach of trust. We request you to investigate them thoroughly and prosecute the persons involved in the Court of law," states the complaint.

The complaint mentions that the High Court of Karnataka has directed the KSOU to comply with the directions of the Governor and Chancellor of the University who has directed the KSOU to book cases against the guilty. Lethal Attack on Tanveer Sait

Doctors perform minor surgery on Sait's ear

Mysuru, Nov. 21 (MTY&KS)- Doctors at Columbia Asia Hospital performed a minor surgery on MLA Tanveer Sait's ear and removed a part of the earlobe which was stitched as it had caught infection.

Briefing the media at the hospital on Sait's health condition, Hospital Chief Dr. Upendra Shenoy said that the part of the earlobe, which was severed during the murderous attack on Sait on Sunday evening and stitched at the hospital, was removed and the earlobe part was handed over to his family members as per their request.

He has been shifted to ICU and would be shifted to the ward if his health stabilises besides stating that plastic surgery on his ear would be performed later.

He further said that Sait's health condition is improving, his kidneys functioning normally and blood pressure was normal. He is under soft diet at present, the doctor added.

Continuing, Dr. Shenoy said that Sait has to stay in the Hospital for 4-5 days and he has to take rest for a few weeks once he is discharged from the hospital. Changes are seen in his health since last 24 hours.

Consultant ENT, Head and Neck Surgeon Dr. H.A. Dattathri said that Sait's voice box (larynx) has become weak today and added that it would recover on its own day-by-day after the swelling on his neck subsides.

He further said that there are many nerves connecting his lips, eyes, eyelids and the nerve on his neck connecting his lower lip has been permanently damaged besides stating that this would not hamper his speech.

Consultant Neuro Surgeon Dr. A.R. Maqsood Ahmed, who also spoke said that Sait's voice box would take about two to three weeks to function normally.

Former CM visits hospital

Former Chief Minister H.D. Kumaraswamy visited the Hospital this morning and enquired the health of Sait.

Speaking to the media, Kumaraswamy said that there is no danger to the life of Sait as his health condition was improving day-by-day. He said that the doctors said that they would keep Sait under observation for a day and then shift him to the ward.

Stating that it was a rebirth for Sait, Kumaraswamy said that as the investigation into the incident was going on, one cannot jump into conclusion on who committed the crime.

The former CM said that Sait was well-known among all political circles and added that the Police should take the issue seriously and bring those behind the heinous act to book soon.

Former Minister U.T. Khader, MLA S.A. Ramdas and others also visited the Hospital and enquired the health of Sait.

Three gunmen for Sait

Mysuru, Nov. 21 (KS) - The probe into the lethal attack on Tanveer Sait has been intensified and the State Government has now provided three gunmen as security to the MLA.

The three gunmen have been instructed to provide security to the MLA 24x7 by working in three shifts.

No connection between attack on Sait and SDPI

There is no connection between the attack on MLA Tanveer Sait and SDPI and the party is not responsible for such a heinous act, said Social Democratic Party of India (SDPI) National General Secretary Abdul Majid.

Addressing a press meet at Patrakarthara Bhavan here yesterday, Majid said that the Police have already arrested the accused and interrogated him and added that political leaders should not heed to sayings that would mislead the investigation.

SIT to probe deeper into KPL match-fixing scandal

Bengaluru, Nov.21- Bengaluru City has formed a Special Investigation Team (SIT) within the Central Crime Branch (CCB) to probe deeper into Karnataka Premier League (KPL) match-fixing scandal, said Bengaluru City Police Commissioner Bhaskar Rao here yesterday.

Addressing the press persons, he said that the matches were being fixed using means such as blackmailing and honey-trapping.

"I have directed Joint Commissioner of Police Sandeep Patil to collect information about all KPL franchises," he said and added that based on the information so far the CCB had arrested seven persons.

"Today there are many non-playing cricketers involved than those playing on the field, and it has become a business for them as they travel to Dubai, West Indies and other foreign countries and stay at five-star hotels. They have also indulged in blackmailing of players through honey-trap.

He said regulatory bodies of the game like BCCI and KSCA have remained 'mute spectators' despite knowing the facts. Rao said it is very much in their domain and called them to take action.

Bengaluru City Police has also issued notices to all teams for match videos, scoresheets and details of the managers and others. Several senior players have expressed the need to cleanse cricket and that the guilty should be booked, he said adding action should also be taken against those who remain silent despite knowing things.

Two Indian owls rescued, accused arrested

Mysuru, Nov. 21 (MTY&KS)- The Forest Mobile Squad personnel have arrested one person on charges of illegally catching Indian owls and trying to sell them and have rescued two owls. The arrested is Dhanaviraj of Hakki Pikki tribe at Shikaripura in Nagamangala taluk.

Following a tip off, DCF Poovaiah, in the guise of a customer, approached Dhanaviraj and laid a trap. The accused fell into the trap easily. Poovaiah said that there is an active gang which catch the owls illegally and sell the same to gullible customers at a very high price due to myths surrounding the owl.

Owls in demand in election season

Come elections and there is an upswing in the demand for owls which are included in the schedule of the Indian Wildlife (Protection) Act. Some candidates contesting elections and their supporters believe that it brings them good luck. Politicians see owls as lucky charms so there has been a demand for owls as pets. Also owls are used in black magic and during election season, many leaders buy the birds to win elections.

In a latest trend, poachers have been using social media to sell the owls. Birds' photographs and prices are being circulated through WhatsApp. The Indian eagle owl is called 'kombina goobe' in Kannada for its horn-like feature and there is a blind belief that people can be brought under a spell, especially because the birds have large, unblinking eyes.

Since owls are rarely seen during the day, the most prevalent image of the owls is that which associate it with the dark. Unfortunately, this has given rise to indiscriminate killing to ward off the 'evil eye' and also its use in various rituals.

Articulate Festival series-44 witnessed a high energy performance by Qatar-based Bharatanatyam artiste on the same day. A dance festival curate by Mysore B. Nagaraj.

Purujith Kadekar: Yakshagana artiste, studying in 7th grade currently under tutelage of Guru Srinidhi Holla of Yakshashree Kala Vrinda, Bengaluru, performed three acts from the coastal theatrical dance art of Karnataka. He commenced with obeisance to Lord Ganesha through the composition 'Neneyiro Janarella Gananathana,' displayed the effervescent nature of bala Krishna in the composition 'Kolanooduta Banda' and concluded with an ode to Goddess Chamundi in the item 'Palayamam Janani.'

Purujith's performance proved that even Yakshagana can be fitted well in dance concerts with possibilities of creating repertoires that fit well into concert formats, as against the art that is a long narrative involving chaturvidha abhinaya, so close to the tenets of Natya Shastra. The 12-year-old was very mercurial, with a contagious smile, thumping feet with precision to the mardala beats, the attitude exuded a very boyish grace that enraptured the audience. Apart from vibrant and glittering costume, he carried the art very comfortably and confidently on his young shoulder.

Saania Thakur: Odissi artiste, studying in Grade 5, disciple of Guru and Mother Yasomati Mishra, chose to perform a prayer to Lord Ganesh through traditional shlok 'Vakratunda Mahakaya,' a traditional Pallavi in Raga Kalyan and finished her short concert with a Odiya abhinaya song on Krishna, Sakhi and Radha 'Bhangi Chaha.'

Saania's Pallavi mesmerised audience. Proved human body could move so sensuous and yet subtly sublime even in a child's body frame. Her understanding of emotions, at such young age, as displayed in her conversation of Sakhi with Radha, describing the beauty of Krishna left audience speechless. One could see a perpetual smile on the spectators' face throughout Saania's performance.

Saina Kadni: Kathak artiste studying in the 9th Grade, trained under Guru Mysore B. Nagaraj and Laxminarayan Jena, through a dhrupad composition on Shiva in raga malkouns and ek taal and a less seen repertoire of kathak 'Geet-Triwat' in raga Madhuvanthi, set to teen taal drew applauds from audience for her speed and dexterity of foot work.

Saina sailed effortlessly and confidently in both the chosen acts. The mudras she employed in the drupad was very pleasant to see when one assumes Kathak has no employment of hand gestures that are codified. The 'Geet-Triwat' she chose to perform established her capacity to grasp the grammar of Kathak in all its nuances as displayed in her execution of parans and the manipulated ankle bells that resounded the syllable of tabla and pakhawaj. She drew applauses during her performance establishing the fact that she made the audience tune with her.

Nrithya: Bharatanatyam artiste studying in the 8th Grade, prized disciple of Guru Archana Punyesh, catered the prekashaka with a Mallari, Aalaripu and a Kouthvam. While the first two was technical dominated, the Kouthvam on Lord Narasimha was enchanting though the Lord has a demeanour of fearful manifestation. Nrithya's command over the basics of Bharatanatyam form got displayed in her two technical items. It was in her Kouthvam that she excelled through her natya dharmi approach to expression and enactment. The fearful nature of Lord Narasimha, was intensely brought out luridly displayed.

Sowmya Govind Naidu, Bharatanatyam artiste based in Qatar, disciple of Vidu. Vasundhara Doreswamy, performed in Articulate Festival series 44 as a concluding segment of the evening. Very crisp and vibrant execution was witnessed in both her chosen acts, giving a feel of her in exhaustible energy that exuded from the word go till her pranams. The very testing Varnam in Ritigowla, Aadi Tala composed by Raghavendra Prabhath and embellished by the select names from Sri Krishna Shatanamavali and interspersed with a sanchari depicting the anecdote of Pootana was followed by a vibrant Thillana in raga Varamu and Aadi tala, composed by Nagamani Srinath which gave a fleeting glimpse of the famous episode of Sri Krishna turning around for Kanakadasa.

The packed house left highly enchanted by the children's act and enthralled by the solo artiste. A assertation was made that our hoary classical arts is well-preserved in the hands of today's children.

Mysore School of Architecture (MSA) wins laurels in South Zone Inter - College Convention

Mysore School of Architecture, established in 2014, as a standalone college affiliated to VTU ,Belgaum has a chance to celebrate yet again. Architecture is branded as one of the toughest courses among all undergraduate courses. Students of architecture, apart from academics also involve themselves in many events and competitions that not only test their creativity, but also provide them opportunities to involve themselves in parallel fields.

National Association of Students of Architecture (NASA India) is a student association, for the undergraduate students of Architecture in India, with an objective to provide a platform for interaction among students from varied cultural backgrounds to learn and share knowledge. 240 member colleges from across the country are divided geographically into 6 zones; of which Karnataka along with Goa, Telangana and Andhra Pradesh belong to Zone 5.

2019 marked MSA's first participation in the 62nd Zonal NASA Convention held by NASA INDIA at Acharya Nagarjuna University's College Of Architecture and Planning (ANU-CAP) Guntur, 05-08 October 2019. A total of 57 student delegates, across 1st to 4th years, attended the convention along with 2100 delegates from various colleges from South Zone. MSA won the first prize in Reubens trophy, judged on the quality of academic work produced by the students at MSA, during the Academic year 2018-19 and also emerged 'OVERALL WINNERS' of 62nd ZONASA in its first attempt! No other college, in the 62 year history of the convention, has won the Overall Trophy in their first attempt.

Another feather in the cap of MSA is that their 3rd year students were shortlisted in the top 5 among 100+ entries in an architectural design competition for Sports medicine and rehabilitation that was held by Hosmac India Pvt Ltd. ARCHEAL is 4th Edition of Global Architectural Student Design Competition powered by Hosmac India Pvt Ltd, which is a pioneering name in field of Hospital Design Upon being shortlisted, the students from 3rd year travelled to Mumbai on 16th November 2019 for the event and were also awarded a consolation prize for their effort.

WORD OF THE DAY

Bruit

Pronunciation: BROOT.

Meaning: Report, rumor — usually used with about.
Origin: Back in the days of Middle English, the Anglo-French noun bruit, meaning "clamor" or "noise," rattled into English. Soon English speakers were also using it to mean "report" or "rumor" (it was applied especially to favorable reports). They also began using bruit the way the verb noise was used (and still occasionally is) with the meaning "to spread by rumor or report" (as in "The scandal was quickly noised about"). The English noun bruit is now considered archaic, apart from a medical sense that is pronounced like the French word and refers to one of the abnormal sounds heard on auscultation.
Example: Analysts have bruited about the notion that Comcast and Disney might team up and divide Fox's assets to prevent a drawn-out bidding war—a turn of events that Mr. Iger has dismissed. — Edmund Lee.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Ball and chain

Meaning: A 20th century slang term, meaning wife.

Origin: The allusion being to the presumption that a man's wife held him back from doing the things he really wanted to.
This, of course, refers back to the actual ball and chain, which was a heavy metal ball secured to a prisoner's leg by means of a chain and manacle. The ball and chain was in use in both Britain and the USA by the early 19th century (and possibly much earlier). The earliest citation in print is from The Times, January 1819:
"They sentence the prisoner to receive 50 stripes on his bare back, and be confined with a ball and chain to hard labour for 12 calendar months." Soon after, in 1821, is this US reference from the Ohio Repository, Canton, Ohio: "Bread and water, the ball and chain, and even whipping, the convicts prefer to the solitary cell."

QUOTE BOX

You show the world as a complete, unbroken chain, an eternal chain, linked together by cause and effect. — Hermann Hesse
